

ADHD

Strangely more and more children get diagnosed with ADHD, ADS, PDD-NOS.

What does that say about our society?

Can't we understand English?

Attention Deficit Hyperactive Disorder.

Strange enough, my feeling is that they are high sensitive, with a high E.Q., and that we have to learn something from them.

They are mirroring our inner war and react on that.

We have to canalize our energy.

Everything is starting with ourselves.

"If people are showing a behaviour we don't understand. We diagnose people and discover a new label of illness.

ADHD is a label for inhuman parenting."

In the past a child had a lot of energy, was creative, inventive, direct and honest.

Happy and open for everything.

Now we've discovered a new label.

Even the kids themselves are believing the diagnose.

They are using this label as an excuse for their behaviour!

Why do we give ADHD, ADS and PDD-NOS people a lot of medicine? Cutting them off completely from all their energy, from being creative and sensitive and loving. Instead of teaching them to canalize their energy and showing them what they can do with it.

Are we afraid of the mirror that they are showing us?

Too direct.

Too honest.

They are screaming, but almost nobody is listening. They even start with criminal activities to ask our attention. But what do we do?

We are accusing them that they are aggressive, that they haven't any respect. We are just afraid, because they are mirroring our feelings, our inner war we don't want to feel. Instead of looking into our own inner, we are shutting our kids up with medicines to get them quiet, so it's not difficult to handle them anymore.

I am not against medicine. But medicine is like drugs, it's closing you up. It's not good for you but sometimes it is necessary. Medicine is there to support you, to help you and to suppress. But to become really healthy you need to go to the cause and heal what's there and let go, so that medicine is no longer needed.

WHY FRENCH KIDS DON'T HAVE ADHD

French children don't need medications to control their behavior.

Published on March 8, 2012 by Marilyn Wedge, Ph.D. in Suffer the Children in the United States, at least 9% of school-aged children have been diagnosed with ADHD, and are taking pharmaceutical medications. In France, the percentage of kids diagnosed and medicated for ADHD is less than .5%. How come the epidemic of ADHD—which has become firmly established in the United States—has almost completely passed over children in France?

Father of ADHD Admitted in Final Interview That Disease
Was "Fictitious"

“ADHD is a prime example of a fictitious disease.”

These were the words of Leon Eisenberg, the “scientific father of ADHD (Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder),” in his last interview before his death.

Leon Eisenberg made a luxurious living off of his “fictitious disease,” thanks to pharmaceutical sales. Coincidentally, he received the “Ruane Prize for Child and Adolescent Psychiatry Research. He has been a leader in child psychiatry for more than 40 years through his work in pharmacological trials, research, teaching, and social policy and for his theories of autism and social medicine,” according to Psychiatric News.

Yes, it was even admitted that they are his THEORIES. The medical industry is using the guise of helping children to depersonalize and disconnect our children from a healthy, normal upbringing. Parents are placing their children on these drugs and subjecting them to what the world has to offer, when in fact all these children are looking for is their parents in hopes of being the blessing that God intended them to be.

In the United States, 1 out of 10 boys among 10-year-olds takes medication for ADHD on a daily basis ... with increasing tendency. And with the help of Teen Screen surveys in public schools, they are attempting to set up the student for the fall.

American psychologist Lisa Cosgrove and others reveal the facts in their study “Financial Ties between DSM-IV Panel Members and the Pharmaceutical Industry.” They found that “Of the 170 DSM panel members 95 (56 percent) had one or more financial associations with companies in the pharmaceutical industry. One hundred percent of the members of the panels on ‘Mood Disorders’ and ‘Schizophrenia and Other Psychotic Disorders’ had financial ties to drug companies.”

And they are reaping major benefits off of this “fictitious disease.” For example, the assistant director of the Pediatric Psychopharmacology Unit at Massachusetts General Hospital and associate professor of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School received “$1 million in earnings from drug companies between 2000 and 2007.”

Marc-André Gagnon and Joel Lexchin, a long-time researcher of pharmaceutical promotion, performed a study which shows that the U.S. pharmaceutical industry spent 24.4 percent of the sales dollar on promotion, versus 13.4 percent for research and development in 2004. That is almost twice as much money on pushing their drugs on the people than research to make sure it is safe!

This raises the following question: Are they safe?

Read the antidepressant black-box warning for yourselves, and you will be alarmed by the side effects listed on the inserts:

- Confusion
- Depersonalization
- Hostility
- Hallucinations
- Manic reactions
- Suicidal ideation
- Loss of consciousness
- Delusions
- Feeling drunk
- Alcohol abuse
- Homicidal ideation

Why would any parent subject their children to drugs with such dangerous side effects?

Dr. Edward C. Hamlyn, a founding member of the Royal College of General Practitioners, in 1998 stated, “ADHD is fraud intended to justify starting children on a life of drug addiction.”

The “attention deficit” lies in the responsibility of the parents, not the child. Scripture tells us that the parent is to “train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it (Proverbs 22:6),” not the other way around.
